ABOUT

Rock City is a unique, natural, outdoor attraction perched on the bluff of Lookout Mountain, Ga. just six miles from downtown Chattanooga, Tenn. where woodland paths wind through 14 acres of natural forest with over 500 species of nurtured plants, between towering rock formations, over historic bridges, and past creative art displays out to the legendary Seven States View. Known for iconic features such as Lover's Leap, High Falls the Swing-A-Long Bridge, and Fairyland Caverns, Rock City is one of the most unique destinations in the United States and a beloved southeastern attraction.

Garnet and Frieda Carter opened their personal estate as a public attraction during the Great Depression on May 21, 1932. Since Rock City Gardens has remained in the family of Garnet and Frieda Carter and is currently under fourth-generation ownership.
